Scottsdale, AZ – March 30, 2006 – Savvi International announced today that Chief Executive Mr. Bruce D. Williams was invited by the Gartner Group to address its 2006 Business Process Management Summit in Nashville, TN March 27th. This prestigious conference was attended by over 1,000 leaders in business and technology within the emerging field of BPM – Business Process Management. Mr. Williams spoke to the synergy and relationships between Lean, Six Sigma and BPM.

The Gartner Group is the leading analyst firm in the BPM field, and assembled a team of luminaries to address attendees in this three-day conference. As an indication of both the importance of the topic and his speaking credentials, Mr. Williams was the first speaker following the keynote address Monday morning. "We were thrilled to have someone of his caliber speaking at this vitally important event," says Mr. James Sinur, Vice President and Distinguished Analyst for The Gartner Group. "We had him right up front. We wanted his expertise and passion from the outset."

"The Continuous Process Improvement industry – renowned for its successes with Lean, Six Sigma, Balanced Scorecard, and others – is destined to integrate with the world of enterprise information technology," says Mr. Williams. "Until just recently, there's been no viable platform for this integration. Now, BPM enterprise applications, integrated with key enabling underlying technologies, are providing the basis for this to occur. It's exciting to be here at this critical juncture, and I'm honored to work with the leaders in this emerging field. This is a dynamic time for everyone."
